

Message

Little bird at your window
Sitting there looking in Too beautiful

To be discreet

Too cheerful
To be contained

Too truthful
To be silenced

Lush white feathers
Staring at your shadow

Waiting to be noticed
Before flying away

A tout jamais

Translation : A tout jamais = For ever and ever

Solène Anglaret is a world-travelled (and chocolate-addicted) storyteller. She is the author of Where to Next? (a travel memoir) and Where Are You From? (a children's story). Her latest project is Where? - a collection of poems about the ups and downs of travelling and living abroad. Through all of her writing, Solène explores the concepts of home, sense of belonging and ultimately aspires to spread a message of tolerance, acceptance and peace.

started dreaming of new horizons from an early age, constantly examining the meaning of belonging. She hopes that her stories and those of other world citizens will inspire more people to step out of their comfort zone and ultimately help spread a message of tolerance, acceptance and peace.